

February 7, 1924.

Mrs. J. J. Henna,
24 West, 72nd. St.,
New York City, N. Y.

My dear Mrs. Henna:-

It was, indeed, a heavy blow to those of us who knew and loved our good friend, when the cablegram came last Saturday night announcing his death. I, for one, although I had been expecting at any minute to hear of his passing away, could hardly believe that such a misfortune should have fallen to you and those who loved him. Mr. Sainz had told me of the last news which he had received from Julia about the Doctor and we had conversed about the slight chance of his recovery.

Of course, you are the ones who are suffering most, but it should always be a consolation for you to know that Porto Rico, as a whole, and especially those who knew Dr. Henna intimately, are sympathizing with you and will cherish his memory. I have asked Mr. Sainz to convey to you personally my deepest sympathy, as you know that I was one of those who had reasons to love Dr. Henna.

Please remember that I am here to serve you at any time and repeating my sincerest sympathy, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,